

Community Technology Clinic

Community Technology Clinic

Purpose

The CTC is a meeting place for poor and homeless people to meet with engineers and information technology experts who learn about their needs and provide, where appropriate, technology-based solutions that meet these needs.

Impact

Cooperative design of technology solutions that involves engineers and IT people, and poor and homeless to ensure real needs are met.

A location for engineers and IT people from the Central Ohio area to help the poor and homeless.

The CTC is filling an empty niche and meeting an important neglected demand; a similar service does not exist at The Ohio State University, elsewhere in Central Ohio, or anywhere in the U.S.

Ohio State Colleges/Units Involved

College of Engineering
College of Social Work

Community Partners Involved

Columbus Coalition for the Homeless
Catholic Social Services
Healthy Worthington Resource Center & Food Pantry

Contact

Kevin Passino
Professor
College of Engineering
passino.1@osu.edu
<https://ctc.engineering.osu.edu>

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY